About Conference

We are delighted to welcome public health leaders and researchers to the 2nd International Conference on Public Health and Health Care System (Public Health-2026), taking place on September 21-22, 2026, in Berlin, Germany.

Following the strong interest in our first edition, which attracted global participation from academics, clinicians, and innovators; we are excited to host the next chapter in Berlin. Public Health-2026 is more than a conference—it is a collaborative platform where evidence, practice, and policy converge to drive meaningful impact in healthcare.

The program will cover key areas such as preventive health, digital and tele-health innovations, mental health, health equity, and strategies to strengthen healthcare systems. Attendees will benefit from plenary sessions by international experts, interactive panels, skill-building workshops, and poster presentations, offering opportunities to exchange insights, showcase research, and establish professional networks.

Berlin, a city renowned for its innovation, culture, and diversity, provides an inspiring backdrop for dialogue and collaboration. By joining Public Health2026, participants will become part of a global community committed to advancing resilient, equitable, and sustainable healthcare systems for the future.

We look forward to seeing you in PUBLICHEALTH-2026 in Berlin, Germany.

Sincerely,
Sai Sambhavi | Conference Secretary
